SUBJECT: EAST ASIAN COMMUNITY: TRANSPORT MINISTER
REASSURES AMBASSADOR ON POSSIBLE U.S. INVOLVEMENT

REF: TOKYO 2329

TOKYO 00002381 001.2 OF 002

Classified By: Deputy Chief of Mission James P. Zumwalt,
Reasons 1.4 (b) and (d)

¶1. (C) Summary: Participation by the United States is crucial in any East Asian Community concept, Cabinet member Seiji Maehara (Minister of Land, Infrastructure, Transport and Tourism; State Minister for Okinawa, Northern Territories and Disaster Prevention; and Space Minister) told the Ambassador in an October 14 meeting. The Minister reiterated the importance of the U.S.-Japan alliance for stability in the Asia-Pacific region. The Ambassador and Maehara discussed opportunities for economic cooperation and a common desire for increased development in Okinawa. End summary.

Importance of U.S.-Japan Alliance

¶2. (C) Minister Maehara told the Ambassador that in his 16-year career has an elected official, his "life's work" is diplomacy and security. It is crucial that Japan and the United States sustain and maintain the alliance; even with a change in government, the two countries must share a close relationship. The Association of Southeast Asian Nations (ASEAN) member countries have deep trust and high expectations for the U.S. presence in the Asia-Pacific region, and believe stability and security in Asia is due in large part to a strong U.S.-Japan alliance, Maehara asserted.

East Asian Community

13. (C) The East Asian Community (EAC) concept announced by Prime Minister Hatoyama during the UNGA in New York City would be "impossible" to achieve if it excludes the United States, a point he repeated several times during the meeting.

The Ambassador welcomed Maehara's statements as "reassuring," and encouraged him to "continue on that path." Minister Maehara added that press reporting from China and Korea misrepresented statements by Prime Minister Hatoyama and Foreign Minister Okada.

Economic Cooperation; Okinawa Issues

14. (C) With reference to the DPJ campaign manifesto that called for a U.S.-Japan free trade agreement (FTA), Minister Maehara said he supports strengthening economic ties between the world's two largest economies. Close economic cooperation will provide a "win-win" situation for both countries, which would extend to Asia as well. The Ambassador said that in addition to the security alliance, he hopes the U.S. and Japan can create other opportunities for cooperation, including on economic issues. Noting discussion on Okinawa tend to focus on Futenma, the Ambassador expressed his interest in helping strengthen the economy of Okinawa and also in cooperating with Japan on technology and innovation (e.g., a "mini-Silicon Valley" in Japan). Minister Maehara thanked the Ambassador for his interest in Okinawa. Observing that Okinawa has the nation's lowest average income and highest unemployment rate, Maehara stated that while U.S. bases could be hampering progress in Okinawa, at the same time they offer stability and serve an important role supporting the U.S.-Japan alliance.
